

CMS

The logo features a stylized representation of a particle detector's cross-section. It consists of several concentric, semi-circular layers in cyan, yellow, and light green. Overlaid on these layers are four thick, red, curved lines that originate from the bottom left and sweep upwards and to the right, representing the paths of particles or muons.

Compact Muon Solenoid